

INTRODUCING Jon Peterman

Jon has over 20 years of varied business experience holding senior management positions in manufacturing, operations, supply chain and at general manager level in the UK, China and France.

During his career Jon has gained considerable strategic, change management, project implementation and resource management skills and experience. His career has also involved the successful management of both start-up and closures of facilities. Alongside this he has found the time to manage and develop his own property portfolio.

I have been working with Jon for several years at Kodak. He has always shown a high energy and a very good understanding of the supply chain business but he also has the knowledge and ambition to understand the total business, skills that made him a very valuable colleague. He has a very proactive "can do" attitude and this combined with his good and strong personality has made it both a pleasure and educational experience to work with him

Claus Olsen
Product Business Director

I had the pleasure of working with Jon while I was on assignment as operations manager for a Kodak film finishing plant in the UK. Jon is a very capable supply chain leader. He is very customer focused. He did a very good job driving continual improvement to our supply chain processes. During his tenure, we drove significant improvement to stock availability while reducing inventory and costs. He is a strong leader who looks to develop win win strategies and solutions. He has high energy, enthusiasm, and passion. His positive attitude is contagious.

Jon's varied experiences have given him a unique understanding of the relationship between time, money and people and how to get the three working in balance and he has become extremely customer focused especially through his involvement with sales and marketing teams. He has proven ability in developing the skill sets of his teams to enable him to focus on defining and implementing forward looking strategies. This is an area Jon is passionate about and he believes is crucial for business owners so they can focus on the strategic development of their business to provide them with the lifestyle they deserve.

As an ICON business advisor Jon can help business owners using his experience and the proven ICON systems to provide step by step solutions that will allow them to achieve the financial and personal rewards they are looking for.

Jon lives in Finchley with his wife Karen and their two teenage daughters. He enjoys supporting them all in their various activities. Jon also enjoys photography as well as driving and maintaining his 30+ year old MG Midget which he has been brave enough to drive over to France a couple of times in recent years.
